Which Cloud? Apr 05 2020 Which Cloud? is the only comprehensive introduction to cloud computing that compares the top three cloud platforms: AWS, Microsoft Azure, and Google Cloud. It's for all disciplines in software (anyone who wants to understand how the cloud platforms are similar and different), for anyone who is new to cloud development and management, and for anyone who is seasoned with cloud development, management, and architecture. This book will help you understand the cloud platforms, make the best decisions, convince others of your decisions, create cross-cloud solutions, migrate between the cloud platforms, and simply communicate to others who have more experience in a different cloud platform! The book addresses three key challenges: Understanding equivalent services to migrate to from a different cloud platform. Understanding the service and feature-level values gained across the different cloud platforms. Understanding effective ways to plan for or architect a cross-cloud solution. The authors begin with service-level comparisons, but they also dig into feature-level comparisons. They compare all three platforms together, to make it simple to understand the differences between all three cloud platforms. They use matrices, diagrams, and conceptual explanations to walk the reader through the comparisons. By the end of this book, you'll have reached the next point in your cloud solution journey. Maybe that means you're a student... you'll now have a much stronger high-level view of all the platforms (and understand how to compare them). Or, if you're a seasoned architect or developer, you'll now have a better understanding of how to do your job... whether it's for cross-cloud solutions, migrations, decision-making, or simply improved communication with coworkers.

Critical Comparison of Low-Carbon Technologies Oct 31 2019 Low-carbon technologies differ significantly in terms of their practical effectiveness for addressing climate change. And yet, this topic is rarely discussed! This is unfortunate given that understanding these differences is essential for the efficient use of our limited resources. Most local/national governments around the globe are pushing for the increased implementation of technologies such as solar, wind, battery storage, biofuels, hydropower, electric cars, etc. A large amount of information is available on these technologies. However, the comparison of these technologies in terms of their abilities to address the critical challenges associated with this complex problem is missing. Dr. Tushar Choudhary, a highly awarded technology specialist with twenty-five years of energy R&D experience, has addressed the above important gap by providing a systematic analysis on the following topics: Critical challenges associated with the targeted CO2 emission reduction Comparison of the technologies in terms of their abilities to address the critical challenges Prioritization of the technologies based on this comparison Being aware of the significant data ambiguity in this field, Choudhary has specifically relied on data from the most credible sources available for developing the analysis presented in this book. The concise analysis should benefit readers of all interest levels- from the mildly curious to those deeply involved with climate change mitigation. The book provides new insights into the widescale implementation of low-carbon technologies and should enable more informed climate change mitigation discussions.
